1. The KKE has inaugurated house-to-house collections of money for the support of the "boys in the mountains". The collectors are equipped with identity cards attesting their party authority to make the collections.
2. The KKE now estimates that it has, mainly through purchase negotiated by means of individual members, about 780 vehicles of all types at its disposal. These are in daily private use, but can be counted upon by the Party if the need arises. The KKE is also engaged in procuring licenses for members who can drive or who are now learning to drive.

NOTE: The figure above probably represents vehicles throughout the country.
